Re: End of Life for AD2016 capture card

To all of our customers and partners;

This is an official End of Life (EOL) notice for the following i3 International product:

- AD2016, 16-channel Capture Card

Effective immediately, i3 International can no longer sell the above model, however i3 International will continue to support and service these products in accordance with the warranty policy.

i3 International regrets any inconvenience this may have caused.

The AD4016 capture card model continues to be available for purchase until the current inventory levels are depleted. Please note that Live Display is not supported on AD4016 capture cards, i.e. live display frame rate speed will match the set recording frame rate speed.

Alternative solution for analog camera support: Annexus 516, 16-channel video encoder. For more information on this model, please visit our website: www.i3international.com , Products > Hardware Solutions > Video Products > Encoders.

Please contact technical support if you have any questions or issues.
